

Inspiring Greatness

As you walk or drive around Nottingham you may notice two new tantalising bus adverts that showcase what Hollygirt School is all about.

You may remember Hollygirt as being one of the first schools in the city to advertise on the back of NCT buses, with their 'girl on the back of the bus' campaign.

The new adverts feature pupils' artwork. The first ad 'Union Jack Girl' was created by Rosie, a current Year 8 pupil at the start of this academic year. The second, 'The Hunter' was created by Frances, a former GCSE Art pupil. The new bus adverts do a number of things:

They demonstrate in a very visual way that Hollygirt inspires each child to excel. From the earliest age pupils are given opportunities to showcase their individual talents.

They reinforce the message that from September 2014 Hollygirt will become fully co-educational, taking boys and girls aged 3-16. They reinforce the fact that Hollygirt is a school with a difference. It offers a unique environment, is small and homely and respects traditional values whilst preparing pupils for their future in an ever changing world.

"We are exceptionally proud of the work that our pupils produce in school and are thrilled at the opportunity to share that work with the rest of Nottingham. At Hollygirt we focus on developing the whole child. Their social, academic, artistic, sporting and pastoral needs are well catered for by our professional staff.

We ensure that your child will have a well-rounded educational experience and will leave Hollygirt with their self-esteem and confidence high, ready to face all of life's challenges." Mrs Hutley, Headmistress of Hollygirt School. Hollygirt would love to know if you see their new buses around the Nottingham area. Take a picture and email it to info@hollygirt.co.uk, or contact them via Twitter or Facebook and let them know where you saw their bus. To find out more about Hollygirt visit their Open Morning on Saturday 10th May 2014, from 9.30am-12pm, or contact Lucy Wilkins the registrar on 0115 958 0596 to book a personal tour.

Hollygirt

SCHOOL

Open Morning

Sat 10th May, 9:30am - 12pm

Come and spend the morning with us and see what makes Hollygirt School so special!

Meet our teachers, pupils and current parents and ask the questions you want answered.

Children can join in sample lessons and activities and get a feel for what life at Hollygirt is like.

We look forward to seeing you there!

For more information
Call 0115 958 0596
Email info@hollygirt.co.uk
Visit www.hollygirt.co.uk

Inspiring Greatness

An Independent School for Boys and Girls aged 3-16

By Frances,
15

